Our Products

Bluestreak develops, manufactures, markets and sells high-quality, well-designed premium products with smart features and a sustainable design that make it easy for businesses and governments around the globe to reduce, reuse, recycle, and make the world a cleaner, safer, more sustainable place to live.

Our products clean roads, airports, and other industrial and commercial environments extending the service life of other equipment, increasing safety, and reducing the need for replacement products. Our products also sort, facilitating reuse and recycling of materials.

Our products are linked to a range of activities, such as sweeping for foreign object debris at airports to prevent damage to aircraft and other equipment to increase flight safety, sweeping for hazardous debris such as nails at landfills and waste transfer stations to prevent damage to garbage trucks and other vehicles, and sorting materials in metal and waste recycling activities.

Why Use Our Products?

More people are developing an awareness of the importance of reducing consumption of materials in the first place and reusing materials where possible, and recycling of materials when reuse is not possible.

All our products contribute in a least one of these ways. This not only is good for the planet, but increases safety, reduces costs, downtime, schedule disruptions and offers a financial return.

Why Choose Our Products?

- Bluestreak provides durable long-lasting high-quality products with smart features that make it easy for people to solve their cleaning and sorting problems.
- We make products that work, not just half work.
- And we stock all products and parts to ensure quick delivery.

Why Choose Bluestreak?

We create long term value through consumer driven innovation. We do this by listening to customers.

We always develop products with input from target customers to ensure the customer requirements are met. We believe this leads to market knowledge and further opportunity identification.

We develop our products with a focus on the specific needs of the application with the aim of providing far more than the "basic product" functionality.

We try to develop and offer an augmented product not just the basic product. We focus on making sure it absolutely works given the terrain involved, and speed requirements when operating. We put thought into how things like clean off will work, the steps for how debris will be handled, providing mounting and other accessories, safety options, ease of use, and enhanced aesthetic appearance. The experience and information on our website we also consider part of our augmented product; videos showing operation and uses of each product, with downloadable assembly and operating instructions to help our customers use our products more effectively.
